

NUR 336 : Nursing Research and Evidence-Based Practice

This nonclinical course introduces evidence-based practice as it relates to the science of nursing. Selected research studies are presented and critiqued. Students identify a clinical problem, develop a PICO question, review sources of evidence, summarize the evidence, make recommendations for practice and disseminate findings. Ethical considerations and methods of protection of human subjects are integrated throughout the course.

Credits 3

Proficiency

QL

Prerequisite Courses

MAT 220: Introduction to Statistics

Co-Requisite Courses

MAT 220: Introduction to Statistics

Semester Offered

Offered fall and spring