

BUS 421 : Leadership, Power and Politics

This class is both a traditional leadership management class and an untraditional class that looks at the theories and practice of leadership in light of power and politics. Leaders need power; yet leaders often abuse their power. This course looks at both internal and external politics. This course moves beyond traditional leadership theory to look at the application of those theories in the real-world in which business operates.

Credits 4

Prerequisites

BUS 204, any HIS course

Semester Offered

Offered fall of odd-numbered years