

ENG 244 : The Novel in a Global World

This course focuses on novels that portray a modern, globalized world and how individuals cope with cultural change. The underlying questions that we explore are: "What makes us who we are as individuals?" "How is identity shaped by environment?" and "What happens when individuals need to reinvent themselves in a new environment?"

Credits 4

Liberal Education Core

Literature

Semester Offered

Offered spring